

Winifred Mayes, a long time North Olympic Land Trust supporter approached Tom Sanford, the executive director of the Land Trust earlier this year with the hope of having something dedicated to her & her sister, Lois Schaefer.

Lois was 95 when she passed away and Winnie is currently 101, both sisters were musicians in the original Boston Pops Orchestra.

The folks at the Land Trust came up with the idea to make a bench that would be left in their honor. This is at the Lyre site.

The wood donated really sparked the whole project, and volunteer Steve Langley, of the Land Trust did an amazing job with his woodworking skills to transform it into something rather extraordinary for sure.

Winnie was blown away, and very touched by the whole thing, noting that her sister would have loved it as well.

Thank you Land Trust for a job well done.
